

Salvation of Saviors (1-series 369) Or still ... looking for ways

Tomorrow depends on how We act Today.

Our consciousness is structured in such a way that it denies unsolvable problems.

Does our consciousness decide what to solve? Our Brain is designed in such a way that it avoids unsolvable problems - "not mature enough" by its octave (frequency) or the level of development –who knows, it is more convenient to assume the negative result is more important.

However, if there is a problem, there must be a solution. Mathematicians have found the means to escape - "under the given conditions, the problem has no solution." But if there is no solution, then it would be at least reasonable to see the problem itself from the back, front, sides, top, and bottom. This problem looks like this, and is impossible to solve. Or maybe still possible to solve? There are many such things as – original sin, salvation, redemption, why God, if He exists why did He create evil, but if He does not exist, what is the point of life... And especially nowadays - what is happening? Why does it happen like this? How will it all end? Everyone searches and finds suitable answers in detachable calendars, catechisms [1], Wikipedia, or, as it is fashionable now, to "Google it." But for some reason, logic provides no answer. And Christianity does not give one either. Neither does Judaism nor Buddhism. "So should we submit to..." many people think there are too many unsolvable questions. There are things that you have to learn to live with and live them out, without solving them ... Or still ...

{1}- Catechism - A summary of Christian doctrine in the form of questions and answers.

In order for something to move, you do not have to accept it, nor calculate the depth of the fall, but look for effective ways out of the current situation. This should be the priority. In order to look for ways out of the current situation and find them, first of all, there must be information and the ability to adequately assess it. It should be accessible and intelligible. It must be protected, and the best protection of information IS ITS DISTRIBUTION. That is why I act in such a way, and I want to convey to people all the information that I have, which I have gotten from the sources I trust, and from my own observations and judgments.

I convey information in order to explain ongoing events, which, especially in the last few months, burst into our lives like a hurricane, "sweeping away" all our concepts of what has been instilled in us from birth. Emotions overwhelm the Mind of people, causing confusion and a kind of hopelessness in the thinking of many. Those who believe that, due to their "rich" experience in politics, and in predicting situations, and explaining them, say and write one thing, those who oppose them and have their own so-called "opinion" based on their life experience and "experience in politics" - say and write different things, that are completely opposite. And in where is the simple answer here, go with the "electorate"? But wait, we also have an "elite"- those who call themselves that and are proud of their "elitism", locked in the search for answers to the questions of the primacy of the phenomenon "chicken vs. egg," "matter vs. consciousness," "money in the morning vs. chairs in the evening" (from "The 12 Chairs" by Ilf and Petrov) and why not the other way around. Sometimes, in their reasoning, they rise in an attempt to understand, where do they come from and at the right historical moment, where do they Passionarions[2] go, as well as entire societies. Their seemingly correct answers further plunge people into confusion and misunderstanding of everything that is happening, or force them to take on faith everything that this "elite" announces.

{2}- Passionarity is an internal thirst for activity directed to achieve some goal, which, as a rule, is difficult for a person to control and explain to yourself. It is associated with the ability to receive from the external environment has more energy than is required for personal and species survival. The passionate personality (passionary) subconsciously uses excess energy in creating a state of internal overstrain and fixation on a certain idea. Such ideas are always associated with a change in the surrounding world. Striving for activities of such individuals can be conscious or not. Their goals are often illusory, are outside rational explanations and objective circumstances, but the need to achieve them may seem more important to them than their own lives and the more the life and happiness of other people.

The intensity of passions, fueled from all sides over the past few months, against the backdrop of the "sudden emergence" of the pandemic and the adoption of the so-called "amendments to the Constitution" and "nullification of everything and everyone (in Russia)," led to the fact that neither the economy, nor politics, or diplomacy, or people - NO LONGER KNOW what to expect from the new political reality because it is "not on the surface" - this is a deep psychological and political problem. It is deep, because the unusual, the sudden, the unexpected, and the unacceptable is taking place in the "depths of the political psychology" of people: all the secrets of what will happen in the coming years are hidden there today. But a lot can be foreseen and many mistakes can be avoided with the help of information and its correct understanding and explanation presented to ordinary people, which make up the majority today, who are looking for the way out of this situation. For a person with a true worldview, the main thing now is the realization of your true purpose on Earth, a deep understanding of YOUR PERSONAL FUNCTIONS and their obligatory and maximum possible usefulness from the fact of their existence for others, your equals. That is, this is a question about the meaning of human life under new conditions of states of being and processes, including correct conscious orientation in human development, harmonized with the ongoing general changes on the Earth as a whole.

All normal people want to understand where, why and for what reason it is suggested they go specifically in this direction. Not to listen to the never-ending sly chanting of "heroic" deeds, through the theatrical lies of historical impostors and false patriots, but to deeply realize the true root causes and consequences of everything that was done to Russia, from the end of the 20th century to the present day. It is this only that will allow people to bring their state of mind into a serene revelation and free them from historical dirt, giving them the opportunity of personal choice. The current theoretical and ideological ignorance of Russia, which appeared as a result of the DAZZLING BRILLANCE of LIES through the diligence and intervention of "Western assistants", should be ILLUMINATED ONLY WITH THE TRUTH! Truth is based on information that is true, that people will perceive due to their knowledge and comprehension.

I am well aware of the fact that talking with a person who thinks in familiar categories, on the subjects that are unusual to him due to the huge scale, is like talking with a child. Most people, even clever ones, will not take such conversation seriously. If someone thoroughly understands nuclear physics or remembers the structure of a mosquito's leg, this indicates the presence of intelligence or knowledge, but NOT THE SCALE OF THOUGHT. If there is no large-scale thinking, the mind alone does not solve anything. It is impossible to do something when the scale of it has not been grasped. Because if you do not believe in the reality of this, you will consider it nonsense and empty fantasy. And another, in my opinion, an important remark in order to go forward in one's comprehension - People always act on the basis of having no knowledge of reality, and accordingly, to their scale of thinking. In fact, there are only a few of these kind of people with such a scale of thinking. The bulk are simple, ordinary people. They, like children, are acutely worried when a stranger takes a toy away from them. But they won't even raise an eyebrow if that stranger takes all the jewelry out of the house. Because the jewels are beyond their perception of the world. The main treasure for most people is their toys. It is the same when determining the scale of the individual. If a person's house is robbed, it will be a great misfortune for him. But if his country is robbed, he won't even notice. Because this problem is OUT OF THE FIELD of his vision.

On what scale do you feel, think and act? On a scale of yourself? Your family? Relatives? Your Country? Humanity? The answer to this question is your scale. If all your aspirations boil down to buying new "toys," and you save money for buying those "toys," you are in fact a child in a sandbox. All children like to "make pretend cookies." Some make them, others dream of making them, however, in both cases, their aspirations are no higher than making Christmas cookies. With age, the children's sandbox transforms into an adult one. The role of Christmas cookies and sand scoops is now replaced by mansions and Rolls-Royces. The quality and cost of "Christmas cookies" are changing, but the point remains the same - a sandbox. Therefore, a person with a childish type of thinking tends to CARE ONLY ABOUT HIMSELF. And even if he has an academic degree, a fortune of one hundred million dollars, and has reached the age of fifty, but thinks only of himself, he is in fact a child. If he also thinks about his family, he is more of an adult. If about relatives, too, he is even more grown up. Yet still, his "adulthood" does not reach the required scale. Our Fatherland (I emphasize – Fatherland, which is far more than just being a country) needs people who are able to think and are ready to ACT ACCORDING TO THEIR KNOWLEDGE.

Those who are capable of doing things for the good of Russia and not tied to a personal gain, are like the words in the song: "Firstly think about your Motherland, and only then about yourself." I believe and know that there are still people who think of Russia like their own family, who think on a global scale, those who are not intimidated by such a scale. Because the more of us, the fewer of them. This is the key to success.

Most people's scale of thinking never goes beyond "planting a tree, building a house, and raising a child." All this is certainly great, but someone has to think about planting forests, building cities and raising a nation. If no one cares about this, if everyone does everything at their own discretion, the fate of trees, houses and people gradually fall into the hands of predators. They, like robbers who got into a house where there are no adults, calmly rob it, confident of their impunity. Because they know that children will not understand anything, and there are no adults.

Question: how can children protect themselves from smart and talented predators who have come to rob their house?

Answer: only through growing up and through knowledge based on information, the authenticity of which is beyond doubt.

And only then will there come an understanding of the ongoing geopolitical processes, of moral degradation, fluctuations in the currency exchange rate, pricing policy, and the waste of resources, as well as of other problems. Today, unfortunately, the scale of the majority's thinking rules out such a possibility. We can, of course, write more about that - develop various assumptions and theories - ponder about what would happen after a while - but all of this is NO MORE THAN empty words, meant for calming your own mind and nothing more. You can search for information, try to comprehend it, relying on the significance of authors, scientific and historical "authorities" - but all this will be like a "one way street" until we understand the very root cause of what is happening as well as our own position in the ongoing processes that are occurring before our very eyes. All the same - there must be something from which one can start up, perhaps even TAKE something ON FAITH, but after taking this path, go forward, comparing everything that you learn about with what we have been taught for our whole life, like "the ultimate truth." It is very difficult, it can be compared to Hercules, who undertook to clear the Augean stables, but it is worth it. The understanding that will come after the comprehension of the knowledge will undoubtedly change both your life and the life of people who believe you and follow your path.

Nearly ten years have passed since the time when the INFORMATION WAS REVEALED, giving answers to almost all the questions that people were looking for and did not find. This information "blew up" the Brain of people who were in a quest for knowledge. But unfortunately, this information has not yet touched the minds of the majority due to certain reasons that have opposed spreading the word and, most importantly, its understanding. What has happened recently in our country is fully consistent with what was stated ten years ago and allows us to foresee that which awaits us. People are completely entangled and drowning in the flows of informational lies created precisely for this purpose, which is going to be discussed further.

This work is called - "Foundations of the Formation of Mankind" (FFM 1–4). It is not difficult to find the book, if you wish to read it and make conclusions for yourself. I have repeatedly turned to it and used it when writing my books and many of my articles.

However, today, I am certain that I must come back to this most relevant information and re-present it to people with my comments and explanations, which will guarantee the truthfulness and relevance of this information, and no matter how grandiloquent it might sound - the possibility to understand what is happening today – of which we are participating in - whether we want it or not. And when I saw the video sent to me, which captures the event - which does not fit into any framework of sanity - Pope Francis kisses the feet of the leaders of South Sudan, I realized that I was doing the right thing.

These are going to be articles (blocks of information) on the most relevant of today's challenges and events, for those who are interested in this, first of all, I recommend looking in the original source.

With this introduction I begin my new work, which I mentioned, having finished writing the fifth book of the series "N. Levashov's "SvetL" Broom in A. Khatybov's Bath Science and A Labor Spade."

There will be 369 articles, notes, essays and other forms of information (in abbreviated form in the Series 369), explanations of this information and, possibly, recommendations for use.

As always, I leave the conclusions to the readers, and, especially those who find the answers to their questions.
